Academic editing | Annotated sample

Doctoral thesis extract · American English · APA 7 · Anonymised portfolio demonstration

Reading key: blue underlined = insertion ~~red struck-through = deletion~~ plain text = unchanged.

Collaboratively developed portfolio demonstration. Unresolved source questions are shown below.

Example 1

As one Russian official observed, "Where some countries are built on democracy, Russia is built on the personal accountability of the one who is the head of the country, and such a trait is pre-defined historically in this part of the ~~globe," as elegantly described by one Russian official, reflects~~ globe" [source and location to verify]. This statement illustrates the ~~proliferation~~ historical influence of ~~historically rooted~~ authoritarian management practices in Russian society. ~~This authoritarian~~ In the early 2000s, this management ~~style, in conjunction~~ tradition, together with a relationship-based business culture and weak market ~~economy~~ institutions, ~~has posed~~ created challenges ~~to~~ for the Russian state's ~~plans~~ efforts to implement international corporate governance (CG) practices ~~in the early 2000s~~ (Puffer & McCarthy, ~~2011, p. 25).~~2011).

Editorial focus: Quotation attribution, sentence structure and source queries.
AUTHOR QUERY 1: Where did this quote come from? I need the original source, who said it, and the page number.

AUTHOR QUERY 2: Can you check that Puffer and McCarthy support this claim? We still need a separate source for the quote.

Example 2

~~When~~ International corporate governance principles ~~are distributed globally, they~~ typically ~~centre~~ draw on agency theory and ~~prioritise~~ emphasize the monitoring task of boards. However, ~~many~~ scholars ~~have suggested~~ suggest that ~~best~~ governance practices ~~deviate from these standards in~~ appropriate for firms with ~~non-dispersed~~ dispersed ownership ~~and~~ may be less suitable for firms with concentrated ownership or those operating in ~~other~~ different institutional ~~contexts than in~~ contexts, particularly outside the ~~USA~~ United States (Aguilera & Jackson, 2010; Desender et al., 2013; Zattoni et al., ~~2017; Desender et al., 2013). In particular,~~ 2017). Depending on the ~~priority of~~ organizational and institutional context, boards may place less emphasis on the monitoring task ~~may decrease in favour of~~ and more on the service ~~task, depending on various contextual variables~~ task (Huse, 2005).

Editorial focus: Academic terminology, American English and APA citation order.

Example 3

~~There is a limited volume of research about~~ Research on boards in Russia ~~(McCarthy~~ remains limited (Judge & Naoumova, 2004; McCarthy & Puffer, 2000, 2002, 2003, 2008; Puffer & McCarthy, 2007, ~~2011; Judge & Naoumova, 2004), with most studying~~ 2011). Most studies have focused on large ~~public~~ publicly traded companies ~~based on the~~ and have adopted an input-output approach ~~(Melkumov,~~ (Berezinets et al., 2015; Kim et al., 2019; Libman et al., 2020; Melkumov, 2009; Shekshnia & Zagieva, ~~2019; Berezinets, Ilina & Cherkasskaya, 2015; Kim, Kuang & Qin, 2019; Libman, Dolgopyatova & Yakovlev, 2020). While the large~~ 2019). Large public ~~firms~~ companies in Russia were ~~the first that~~ legally ~~adapted~~ required to adopt international ~~CG standards, mid-sized~~ corporate governance (CG) standards. Mid-sized private ~~firms~~ companies have also ~~have incorporated many~~ adopted CG practices ~~that they found beneficial~~ suited to their ~~particular organisational~~ organizational and ~~environmental context.~~ institutional contexts. However, we have ~~found~~ identified no ~~research that studied~~ studies examining boards in Russian mid-sized private companies, despite the more extensive research on comparable firms ~~in this particular context, compared with multiple studies~~ in advanced economies.

Editorial focus: Research gap, author-confirmed legal requirement and citation audit.

Outstanding checks: Verify quotation source, cited claims and reference-list details, including potential year, spelling and coauthor discrepancies. These are queries, not verified corrections.